Passing a Note

Write a dialogue or conversation with a friend. This is just like passing a note back and forth in class; You write something, then a friend writes something in response. The only difference here is that I don't want you to use text-messaging lingo and you are to use the correct punctuation for dialogue. Use formal language please.

Let's practice:

“

—?” I bluntly asked.

“

hesitantly responded.

," I asserted, "_____!"

Now you and your partner try below. Don't forget to punctuate correctly and start a new paragraph each time you change speakers. All sentences must contain an adverb in the conversational tag and you are not allowed to use the word said.
